Smallmouth Bass Transplant Project

Since Burbot became established in Flaming Gorge, the numbers of smallmouth bass have declined on the Wyoming side of the reservoir due to predation on small bass and competition for food (crayfish). Although Burbot are found in the canyon (UT) portion of the reservoir, their numbers remain relatively low. As a result, smallmouth bass are very abundant with bass hiding behind almost every rock during the summer months.

A smallmouth bass transplant project was completed on Flaming Gorge last Friday (May 30th) in coordination with Wyoming Game and Fish (WGFD), Utah Division of Wildlife Resources (UDWR), US Forest Service, Bureau of Land Management, Trout Unlimited, Cowboy Bass, Wyoming Bass Federation, Utah Bass Federation, Utah Bass Nation, and generous members of the public. Forty anglers operating twenty boats, volunteered their time and gear to hook-n-line bass for UDWR and WGFD. Collections focused on the Jarvies Bay area where bass densities are high. Collected bass were hauled to one of two agency transport boats, where biologists measured, tagged, and loaded fish into large oxygenated tanks. A total of 359 of these bass were moved to one of two release sites, 30-40 miles up lake. In addition, 26 bass were tagged and released in Jarvies Bay to compare the two marked groups.

Fish were tagged with fluorescent green Floy tags (looks like a spaghetti noodle) that each have a unique 4-digit number. If caught, anglers are asked to record the tag number, location caught, and length and call the phone number on the tag to report the catch. The tagged bass can still be released so it can continue to provide data upon future recaptures. Both UDWR and WGFD are interested in assessing growth, movement, and survival of these tagged smallmouth bass in Flaming Gorge, assisting the agencies in monitoring the success of the transplants and future management of the fishery.

Thanks to all the participants in making this project a success. Signed Ryan Mosley

as reported by Erin Fenner of the Craig Dailey Press Browns Park National Wildlife Refuge staff discovered a tractor stuck on Swinging Bridge Wednesday, June 25th, partially plunged through the middle of the overpass. The back tires of the tractor crashed through the base of the bridge, so the vehicle is now stuck in the middle of the landmark structure with no set time for removal.

"We are making the owner remove it. We have people on site, but we are not going to be removing it ourselves," said Linda DeRose, manager of the Moffat County Road and Bridge Department. People who want to cross the river will need to drive another 10 miles west and use the Bridge Hollow crossing. While it will only add about 30 miles to the trip, the roads are rough so travelers should anticipate adding an additional one to two hours travel time. No know time of repair has been stated at this time.

COMMENTS SOUGHT ON CHANGE OF DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME

During the last legislative session a law was passed that the Governor’s Office of Economic Development (GOED) hold a public meeting and collect data about Utah residents’ positions on Daylight Saving Time (DST). GOED is requesting input from any and all agricultural producers and producer groups interested in expressing an opinion on this issue. This is your chance to have your voice heard.

There are two ways you can provide input. A website has been set up with information on how individuals and organizations may make comments and state positions. <http://business.utah.gov/time>. A public meeting will also be held in Salt Lake City to discuss Daylight Saving Time on July 10 from 10 to 11 a.m. at the Clark Planetarium (110 South 400 West, SLC, UT 84101). The following three possibilities for DST will be explored through the website and the forums:

1. Retain existing “spring forward” and “fall back” time as currently followed in Utah
2. Align with Arizona on Mountain Standard Time (fall time) for all 12 months of the year
3. Create a new daylight saving time, i.e. spring forward for all 12 months of the year

The UDAF encourages all interested parties to participate in this process.

SBA Economic Injury Disaster Loans Available to Utah Small Businesses

SACRAMENTO, Calif. - Small, nonfarm businesses in nine Utah counties and neighboring counties in Colorado are now eligible to apply for low-interest federal disaster loans from the U. S. Small Business Administration (SBA). "These loans offset economic losses because of reduced revenues caused by the drought that began on April 29, 2014, in the following primary counties," announced Tanya N. Garfield, Director of SBA's Disaster Field Operations Center-West.

Primary Utah counties: Duchesne and Uintah; Neighboring Utah counties: Carbon, Daggett, Emery, Grand, Summit, Utah and Wasatch; Neighboring Colorado counties: Garfield, Moffat and Rio Blanco.

"SBA eligibility covers both the economic impacts on businesses dependent on farmers and ranchers that have suffered agricultural production losses caused by the disaster and businesses directly impacted by the disaster," Garfield said.

Small, nonfarm businesses, small agricultural cooperatives, small businesses engaged in aquaculture and most private, nonprofit organizations of any size may qualify for Economic Injury Disaster Loans (EIDLs) of up to $2 million to help meet financial obligations and operating expenses which could have been met had the disaster not occurred.

"Eligibility for these loans is based on the financial impact of the disaster only and not on any actual property damage. These loans have an interest rate of 4% for businesses and 2.625% for private, nonprofit organizations, a maximum term of 30 years, and are available to small businesses and most private, nonprofits without the financial ability to offset the adverse impact without hardship," Garfield said.

By law, SBA makes EIDLs available when the U. S. Secretary of Agriculture designates an agricultural disaster. Secretary Tom Vilsack declared this disaster on June 25, 2014.

Businesses primarily engaged in farming or ranching are not eligible for SBA disaster assistance. Agricultural enterprises should contact the Farm Services Agency (FSA) about the U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) assistance made available by the Secretary's declaration. However, in drought disasters nurseries are eligible for SBA disaster assistance.

Applicants may apply online using the Electronic Loan Application (ELA) via SBA's secure Web site at <https://disasterloan.sba.gov/ela>.

Disaster loan information and application forms are also available from SBA's Customer Service Center by calling (800) 659-2955 or e-mailing disastercustomerservice@sba.gov. Individuals who are deaf or hard-of-hearing may call (800) 877-8339. For more information about SBA's disaster assistance programs, visit <http://www.sba.gov/disaster>.

The deadline to apply for these loans is February 25, 2015.

Ashley National Forest Proposes Recreation Fee Increases and Additional Cabins for Rent

VERNAL, UTAH: The Ashley National Forest is interested in hearing your comments on a proposal to increase fees at one campground, one group site, three cabins and three yurts, along with new fee recreation opportunities being proposed on three additional cabins.

Currently, fees are collected at 89 recreation sites, which include 71 family campgrounds, 12 day use sites and six rental cabins and yurts. Sites where fees are charged have a higher level of amenity features than non-fee areas. Some of the amenities present are picnic tables, toilets, garbage collection, fire rings and interpretive displays.

“We have made improvements to many of our fee sites over the last 18 years,” said Kathy Paulin, recreation program manager for the Ashley National Forest. “Many of these improvements were possible because of fees collected at recreation sites. Increases in fees will help us continue to make improvements and provide quality recreation opportunities to visitors.”

Public comments will be accepted from June to the end of September 2014. To comment on these proposals, contact: Louis Haynes, Ashley National Forest, (435) 789-1181 or email ljhaynes@fs.fed.us. For detailed information on each site please visit http://www.fs.usda.gov/Internet/FSE_DOCUMENTS/stelprd3804959.pdf.

There are numerous recreation opportunities on the forest that are free, such as less developed campgrounds and dispersed camping sites, trails for travel by OHV, horses, and hiking, scenic driving, High Uintas Wilderness trips and numerous picnic and fishing sites. The Ashley has 171 developed recreation sites; 89 require fees and 82 are free.

“We want to know how fee increases might impact recreationists,” stated Kathy Paulin. “We are asking for people who recreate at the Ashley’s campgrounds, group sites and cabin rentals to give us feedback about the fee proposals.”

The fee increases would be consistent with inflationary costs as well as ensure that fees are more comparable to similar public and private sites in their respective areas. “We are proposing to have price consistency throughout the Forest at similar sites with similar amenities provided”, Kathy Paulin said.

The majority (95%) of the revenue collected at recreation fee sites remains on the forest to operate, maintain and improve the facilities and programs at the recreation sites. User-generated revenue supplements appropriated funds and helps the Ashley National Forest reinvest in recreation facilities that are important to the public.

All fee change proposals will be presented before a citizen’s advisory committee, called the Utah BLM Recreation Resource Advisory Committee (RRAC). Committee members represent a broad array of recreation interest groups to help ensure that the Forest Service is proposing reasonable and publicly acceptable fee changes. Committee members will help ensure that the Forest Service addresses public issues and concerns about recreation fees.

The public is welcome to attend and comment at all advisory committee meetings. The next Utah RAC meeting is expected to be held during the winter of 2014/15. The exact meeting time, location and agenda will be announced on the Ashley National Forest website and through local media.

In 2004, Congress passed the Federal Lands Recreation Enhancement Act which allows the Forest Service to retain funds collected at certain recreation sites and use these funds locally to operate and maintain and improve these sites. Before the Forest Service received the authority to retain funds locally, all fees collected by the Forest Service went to the national treasury.

Comments will be accepted through the end of September 2014. Written comments should be submitted to: Kristy Groves, Roosevelt-Duchesne District Ranger, P.O. Box 981 (85 West Main), Duchesne, UT 84021 or Nicholas Schmelter, Vernal District Ranger, 355 N Vernal Avenue, Vernal, UT 84078. Electronic comments should be sent to comments-intermtn-ashley@fs.fed.us and will be most useful if submitted in a format such as an email message, pdf, plain text (.txt), rich text format (.rtf), or Word (.doc or .docx) document. If you are submitting comments please note the name of the project (Ashley Fee Proposal) within your comments.

Lightning Safety—When Thunder Roars—Go Indoors

You are not safe anywhere outside. Run to a safe building or vehicle when you first hear thunder, see lightning or observe dark threatening clouds developing overhead. Stay inside until 30 minutes after you hear the last clap of thunder. Do not shelter under trees.

On the Water: The vast majority of lightning injuries and deaths on boats occur on small boats with NO cabin. It is crucial to listen to weather information when you are boating. If thunderstorms are forecast, do not go out. If you are out and cannot get back to land and safety, drop anchor and get as low as possible. Large boats with cabins, especially those with lightning protection systems properly installed, or metal marine vessels are relatively safe. Remember to stay inside the cabin and away from any metal surfaces. Stay off the radio unless it is an emergency! Do NOT seek shelter under the beach picnic shelters. Go to your car! Wait 30 minutes until after the last rumble of thunder before going back to the beach.

Daggett County Mosquito Abatement District will be doing Aerial Spraying on July 1, 2, and 3rd. Depending on the weather conditions the pilot will be flying either in the evenings or mornings.

Bye-Bye, Bugs — Here's How to Make a Homemade Mosquito Trap

By Heather Davis June 18, 2013 12:45 PM

Homemade Mosquito Trap (Secret Garden of Life Facebook)

You could go out and buy a mosquito zapper, but why not make one at home for way less money! Here is a recipe for a homemade mosquito trap — and all you need is an old soda bottle and some kitchen items.

HOMEMADE MOSQUITO TRAP

Items needed:

- 1 cup of water
- 1/4 cup of brown sugar
- 1 gram of yeast (You don't need a lot)
- 2-liter plastic bottle

How to do it:

1. Cut the plastic bottle in half.
2. Mix brown sugar with hot water. Let cool. When cold, pour in the bottom half of the bottle.
3. Add the yeast. No need to mix. It creates carbon dioxide, which attracts mosquitoes.
4. Place the funnel part, upside down, into the other half of the bottle, taping them together if desired.
5. Wrap the bottle with something black, leaving the top uncovered, and place it outside in an area away from your normal gathering area. (Mosquitoes are also drawn to the color black.) Change the solution every two weeks for continuous control.

Someone on the Facebook page that I found this on also suggested a white bucket with two scoops of chlorine in the bottom of it, but I would worry about animals eating that! The above has nothing toxic.

Fire Officials Encourage Caution with Fireworks

Salt Lake City – While Utah has experienced a relatively slow start to the wildfire season, light vegetation is dry along the foothills and desert areas across the state and fire danger is climbing. Light fuels like cheat grass are already dry and flammable. As daily temperatures continue to rise throughout the state, the wildfire hazard also increases.

Fire officials from state and federal agencies are emphasizing that it is illegal to possess or ignite fireworks on state or federal land at any time. If convicted, fines can be up to $5,000. Officials issue the caution: One spark from fireworks can touch off a costly and destructive wildfire.

Before lighting fireworks, check with your local fire department. Several cities, counties and tribal reservations have restrictions and closure areas for fireworks. During the summer, lighting fireworks in Utah is only legal July 1st - July 7th, and July 21st - July 27th from 11am - 11pm, with an exception - July 4th and 24th - 11am until midnight.

Even in areas where fireworks are legal to use they continue to be a major cause of wildfires; here are a few guidelines to keep celebrations safe:

- Follow product instructions
- Use only legal fireworks
- Don’t light fireworks near grass or other vegetation
- Discard expended fireworks in a bucket of water
- Use fireworks only as intended. DO NOT try to modify them
- Alcohol and fireworks do not mix. Have a designated person light fireworks

For more information on wildfire conditions, restrictions and prevention, please visit www.utahfireinfo.gov.

Daggett County Jail Inmate Graduation

Wilber Fransisco Gongora, an inmate at the Daggett County jail, graduated with a high school diploma on May 5, 2014. Teacher Sara Lamb offered opening remarks by welcoming those in attendance, and read a poem, The Steeps, in the tradition of former teacher and Mrs. Lamb's father, Steve B. Wilkinson, who would read this poem to each of his graduates.

"This particular situation is rather unique, as Mr. Gongora is the only one of my students who was taught by my father as well as myself. I feel honored to have finished what my father started," Mrs. Lamb stated.

After offering encouragement to continue taking the higher road, Mrs. Lamb's remarks were followed by Sheriff Jerry Jorgensen, who stated that the jail staff had recognized the development of Mr. Gongora's leadership abilities during his incarceration, and praised his efforts in earning a high school diploma. Daggett School Board member, James A. Olsen, was present to award Mr. Gongora's diploma. Mr. Gongora was released from the Daggett County Jail May 6, 2014. His future plans include working in his family's business and to attend college.

Learning Project for Kids MAKE LIGHTNING

MATERIALS:

- aluminum pie pan
- small piece of wool fabric
- styrofoam plate
- pencil with a new eraser
- thumbtack

PROCESS: Push the thumbtack through the center of the aluminum pie pan from the bottom. Push the eraser end of the pencil into the thumbtack. Put the styrofoam plate upside-down on a table. Quickly, rub the underneath of the plate with the wool for a couple of minutes. Pick up the aluminum pie pan using the pencil as a handle and place it on top of the upside-down styrofoam plate that you were just rubbing with the wool. Touch the aluminum pie pan with your finger. You should feel a shock. If you don't feel anything, try rubbing the styrofoam plate again. Once you feel the shock, try turning the lights out before you touch the pan again. Check out what you see! You should see a spark!!

EXPLANATION: Why does this happen? It's all about static electricity. Lightning happens when the negative charges, which are called electrons, in the bottom of the cloud or in this experiment your finger are attracted to the positive charges, which are called protons, in the ground or in this experiment the aluminum pie pan. The resulting spark is like a mini lightning bolt.

A refresher on how some of our former patriots handled negative comments about our great country.

JFK'S Secretary of State, Dean Rusk, was in France in the early 60's when DeGaulle decided to pull out of NATO. DeGaulle said he wanted all US military out of France as soon as possible.

Rusk responded, "Does that include those who are buried here?" DeGaulle did not respond.

You could have heard a pin drop.

When in England, at a fairly large conference, Colin Powell was asked by the Archbishop of Canterbury if our plans for Iraq were just an example of 'empire building' by George Bush.

He answered by saying, "Over the years, the United States has sent many of its fine young men and women into great peril to fight for Freedom beyond our borders. The only amount of land we have ever asked for in return is enough to bury those that did not return."

You could have heard a pin drop.

There was a conference in France where a number of international engineers were taking part, including French and American.

During a break, one of the French engineers came back into the room saying, "Have you heard the latest dumb stunt Bush has done? He has sent an aircraft carrier to Indonesia to help the tsunami victims. What does he intend to do, bomb them?"

A Boeing engineer stood up and replied quietly: "Our carriers have three hospitals on board that can treat several hundred people; they are nuclear powered and can supply emergency electrical power to shore facilities; they have three cafeterias with the capacity to feed 3,000 people three meals a day, they can produce several thousand gallons of fresh water from sea water each day, and they carry half a dozen helicopters for use in transporting victims and injured to and from their flight deck. We have eleven such ships; how many does France have?"

You could have heard a pin drop.

A U.S. Navy Admiral was attending a naval conference that included Admirals from the U.S., English, Canadian, Australian and French Navies. At a cocktail reception, he found himself standing with a large group of officers that included personnel from most of those countries. Everyone was chatting away in English as they sipped their drinks, but a French admiral suddenly complained that, whereas Europeans learn many languages, Americans learn only English. He then asked, "Why is it that we always have to speak English in these conferences rather than speaking French?"

Without hesitating, the American Admiral replied, "Maybe it's because the Brit's, Canadians, Aussie's and Americans arranged it so you wouldn't have to speak German."

Robert Whiting, an elderly gentleman of 83, arrived in Paris by plane. At French Customs, he took a few minutes to locate his passport in his carry on.

"You have been to France before, monsieur?" the customs officer asked sarcastically. Mr. Whiting admitted that he had been to France previously.

"Then you should know enough to have your passport ready." The American said, "The last time I was here, I didn't have to show it."

"Impossible! Americans always have to show their passports on arrival in France!"

The American senior gave the Frenchman a long hard look. Then, he quietly explained, "Well, when I came ashore at Omaha Beach on D-Day in 1944 to help liberate this country, I couldn't find a single Frenchman to show a passport to."

You could have heard a pin drop.
